Poetry.

The Beautiful "By and By."

By the shining shores of life's beautiful river,
Where the morning gleams on its bright waves quiver,
A bark lay rocking on the tide;
We stood on the white sands, John and I,
And he whispered, "Dear heart, shall we sail together,
All the long, long day, with its changeful weather,
Till we land by and by on the other side?"
My heart and my voice made swift reply,
"We will cross together, love, you and I,
Over the tide to the other side,
To the beautiful 'by and by'."

Through all the day, with its sweet, bright morning,
Its darkening noon with its clouds of warning,
Its evening of lulling, dreamy rest,
We have breasted the billows, John and I;
And I whisper, "Dear herat, we shall land together,
Unharmed and unchilled by the changeful weather;
See, our sun goes down in a golden west!
The spray of the storm that beat so high
Has but frosted the hair and dimmed the eye;
And lo! on the sands of yon nightless lands
Is our beautiful 'by and by'!"

Selected Story.

The Doctor's First Patient.

Very proud and happy was Edward Arlington as he clasped his diploma, and prouder and happier when in his return to his humble lodgings he wrote out his name, and attached to it the significant M. D. And well might his heart be glad. Not without struggle and toil had he earned the right. Indeed, so far, his life had been one continual struggle, a struggle not only to keep alive and rugged the heart that beat in his bosom, but a struggle to endow that mind, which made so radiant, aye, which the knowledge for which it yearned so anxiously and so earnestly.

Left an orphan at a comparatively tender age, with but one relative, and he worse than none, for he would never befriend the poor, lonely lad, life to him had opened darkly and sadly. But the strength that is born of agony had been his, and with strength came hope, and with hope, courage; and so, patiently and cheerfully, he plodded on his way, and, as we have intimated, at length was rewarded. True, the battle was oly half-won, for though a profession be much, it is far from being all. To establish himself successfully, to build up a reputation that should not only add glory to his name, but put money into his empty purse, that was another up hill work. But his was a brave heart.

"Fortune favors the brave," sometimes. It did our hero. The next morning, as he sat beside his little study table, buried in anxious thought as to the most feasible means of exerting his talents in the profession he had chosen, a letter sealed with black was handed to him. It was from the widow of the relative, whom, in early life, he had petitioned to assist him.

Death sometimes has another mission than merely to close the mortal eye, and hush the voice of life. It lays its cold, white fingers on the heart, and while it palsies the fleshy part, it gives new and beautiful life to the spirit that has long been benumbed in its silent chambers.

And thus it did to Henry Arlington, the great uncle of the young physician. On his death-bed, he revoked all former wills, and bequeathed to his poor nephew a goodly portion of his property, sent him his blessing, and a prayer that he would return good for evil, and become a son to the widow, whom he should leave lonely and sad, and tottering with age.

Ere a week had elapsed, Edward had settled all his affairs in the great city where he had passed his youth, and bent his way toward the little village where dwelt the only one to whom he was bound by an earthly tie. He reached it just at sunset, and it opened to his excited mind like a dream of beauty to a poet.

It was indeed a lovely nook. Tall mountains sheltered it—encircled it, we should rather say—with strong, warm arms, not shutting out the sunlight and the sky, but only warding off cold, bleak winds, and opening here and there, and everywhere, indeed, visions and views which could not but charm the pleasure seeking and wonder hunting traveler.

In the little valley was heard the song of many a streamlet, the rich melody of many a bird, and the gleesome shout and ringing laugh of light-hearted children. And, as the traveler slowly walked his horse, he wondered not that the brooks and the birds and the little human hearts sang so sweet a vesper. It seemed to him that he too could sing if he had a home in so fair a spot, and he almost coveted one of the so many snow white dwellings that stood along the road, arched over by such majestic trees, and surrounded by such beautious garden patches and fertile fields. Fresh from the city, the hot, sun-struck, dusty, babbling city, he could appreciate the charms of a summer evening in the cool, shady, green, quiet village street, as those only can who go from man's work to God's.

He met with a warm welcome from his aged aunt, and after a few weeks sojurn with her, resolved to say "yea" to her wishes, and settle down in this same little village.

There was indeed as fair an opening as he could expect in any place. Of the two physicians who had been settled there the eldest had died a few weeks before, and the other was getting advanced in years. Both had made a comfortable property, and there seemed to our young doctor no reason why he might not follow in the chaise tracks of him who was gone, and perhaps in those of him that was going, and become, too, a man of some renown and wealth.

The dear old aunt prophesied health, happiness and money; his wishes did the same, and it was soon announced that old Henry Arlington's great nephew, the young physician, had become a resident of the place. A wing of the aunt's house was fitted up as an office, while upon the little white gate in front was nailed a gilded sign. A horse and chase were purchased, medical books and surgical instruments were ordered, and everything was soon in a nice trim for an extensive practice. Nay, not everything. There were no patients.

Young men in every profession have to endure much, because they are young. The world is afraid to trust them because they have no experience, forgetting that the only way for them to reach that experience is through practice. None suffers more from this prejudice against youth than the physician. And none, more than he, needs a stout heart and a patient soul.

Edward had both these, and he had now what too many medical students have not; he had the the means to live quite comfortably without any professional fees. An ignoble fellow would have sat down and been content, but a mind so highly cultivated as his, could do no such unworthy thing. The knowledge he had acquired, through such weary means, was too precious to be hidden; he longed to do good with it, to follow in the footsteps of the great physician and "heal the sick."

Because practice had not come he did not yielded to despair, and say it will never come; but he roused every energy and determined to be ready for it when it should come. The first ray of moonlight found him at his studies, and the stars not unfrequently found him there.

Though practice did not come, acquaintance and friendship did [illegible] the old doctor passed him by as stiffly as though an iron rod instead of flexible spine upheld his body; and the lawyer, who was brother-in-law to the doctor, looked straight forward when they met, and the heads of all the families whom the aforesaid old doctor visited, frowned terribly upon him; but the minister hailed him as a congenial soul, and, in his study, Edward spent many a pleasant and profitable hour.

The heads of those families, who had lately lost their physician, gave him a kindly welcome to their hearths, though they said nothing should tempt them to employ so young a man, while the young men and maidens greeted him gladly as a valuable acquisition to their little circle.

Had the doctor been a gay young man his horse would not have stood so much of the time in his lonely stable, for albeit he had no professional calls, others of a different and perhaps some would think more interesting, character, might have kept him on the road a goodly part of his time; but the doctor was, in some respects, a model man, and never allowed the pleasures to interfere with the duties of his life. Only when it was consistent with the rigid conrse he had marked out for himself, did he mingle in the society of the gay and thoughtless ones of his own age.

"Well, daughter, what tidings?" asked Mrs. Mann of her daughter, Helen, as she entered the breakfast room early one morning on her return from the neighborly duty of watching with a sick child.

"What I told you to expect," said she, sadly. "Little Willie, my darling playmate, is dead."

"Dead" continued she, after a few moments, pause, with impassioned earnestness, "yes, murdered. I can weep for him, but not with his parents. Three children gone before with the same disease, and yet so blind, bigoted and prejudiced were they, that no one must be called in but the old doctor who signed the death warrant of the others."

"Our little Nell is angry now." said the father good humoredly. "Have a care what you say, you may repent it when calm."

"Well, but, father, is it not outrageous that people will continue to employ a man that don't know anything, when for the same money, they might have the attentions of one who is well qualified to discharge his duty?"

"That means that it is outrageous for our vilagers to employ the old doctor, and suffer the young one to have nothing to do but to wait upon the young maidens to picnics and parties."

"He don't spend his time so," said the young girl earnestly. "He studies, keeps up with his age, and goes into society only as a recreation. And it is a shame that he has been here four months, and had never a professional call. Who knows how many little graves might still have been unclaimed, had he attended them. Oh, I have longed to speak my feelings to those fathers and mothers who have thus sacrificed their little ones on the pile of bigotry! I have been silent only because the doctor was a young man, and my motives might have been misjudged."

Her cheeks crimsoned as she spoke; it would be rude to question why!

"There is much truth in what you say daughter. I am convinced Dr. Arlington understands well his profession, and will, in time, be a prominent member of it. But how to bring him into practice, I know not. As for me, I never have any ails, and unless your mother or you can manage some way to get sick and furnish him a patient, I see not but he must be idle yet. It only needs for one or two of the best familys here to give him practice, and his way is clear. Say, daughter, havn't you some neuralgic pain? Why, your cheeks are hot and flushed. Don't she look, mother as though she were in incipient fever?" And the fond father patted the delicate face, and felt the slender wrist, to note if high or low beat the pulse of life. "Very far from well," continued he in a jocose seriousness; shouldn't wonder if the heart was affected; guess I'll call and see the doctor."

"Father, father, do be good now," cried the young maiden, springing after him as he reached the front door. "Don't carry the jest too far."

"Jest, daughter," exclaimed he, in affected seriousness; "it's no jesting matter for a father to see his only daughter's heart affected. But," seeing the tears start to her eyes, "perhaps, as this is a serious case, and the young doctor has no experience, I had better call in the old one. Shall it be so?" And he kissed her tenderly.

"Your word is law," whispered she; and she came back with a calmer heart.

Had the young doctor known what a bright-eyed, beautiful maiden champion had entered the list for him, he would have been more patient than ever, and hope would have sung to him sweeter songs than she yet dared to breath into his ear.

A few weeks after this conversation, as the doctor was seated in his office, deep in study, he was startled by some new and strange sound; he could hardly tell its nature, and in an instant, something dashed with lightning speed, past his window.

It was the work of an instant to rush to the door and ascertain that a horse had run away, that he had broken the carriage, and thrown the occupant; but it took less than an instant to carry his fleet steps to the roadside, where motionless and insensible lay the beautiful Hellen Mann.

He was a physician, and the only gentleman to help, and he had thus a right to lift her carefully and tenderly in his arms, and bear her to his office lounge; but because he was a physician, had he a right to press upon her pale lips such passionate kisses, to call her by such endearing names? Well for him it was that the little bird that carrolled to the old elm that shaded the spot where Helen had fallen, was a discreet little creature, and not one of those gossipping ones that tell all they see, and more too. But she only carolled the louder and sweeter, and thus drowned the love-tones of that human voice.

Long and anxiously did Edward bend over his first patient, and the pride and joy he felt on winning his diploma were slight indeed compared to what he felt when at length the golden lashes of the maiden were slowly raised, and the color came back to her whitened cheek. Nor till then did he call his aged aunt to assist him.

Perhaps he did not think of it before; he was indeed busy in applying restoratives and [illegible] thought it would be time lost to wait for other help to come.

Helen had been driving out alone when her horse took fright and ran. Fortunately she was more frightened than hurt in her fall, for though severely bruised, there were no bones broken. Her parents found her an hour afterward, ensconsidered in the spare chamber of the good aunt, very pale and weak, with a swollen wrist and ankle, but so much better than they had feared to see her, that their hearts were glad indeed, and they would have carried her home forthwith; but to this proposition the doctor objected strongly.

"She fainted," said he," as we were bringing her from the office here. It would be death to move her."

"Well, well," said the father, in a tone that brought the color again to the cheek of his daughter, "as she is your first patient, I sppose it won't do to interfere. Youv'e a reputation to earn, and you must do what you think will be most profitable for it. So, mother, you may stay and help take care of her, and I'll keep house alone."

A great noise and commotion was in the little village when it was known that Helen Mann was sick at Window Arlington's house, and the young doctor tending her. The old people said Mr. Mann and his wife deserved to loose her, if they trusted her in the care of such an inexperienced fellow, and they would lose her that old Dr. G——would have to be called in yet.

The young men envied the doctor the privilege of waiting on one who was acknowledged to be the belle of the village while the young ladies envied her the care of one who was to them the beau ideal of their hearts.

But the maiden recovered, and the doctor carried her home in his own chaise; he would not trust her with any one else; he told her father that his reputation was not yet earned, and he must see that his first patient met with no relapse.

"Pray tell me, doctor," asked Mr. Mann, one evening, about a month after, as entering the parlor, he found Helen and the young doctor in earnest conversation, "pray tell me if these are all professional calls?"

"Why, sir?" said the young man hesitatingly.

"Because, if they are, you must have a good round bill against me by this time! I guess you mean to make your first patient a pretty profitable one!"

"I have found her so thus far," replied the yong man, earnestly, "and she promises to continue so, for," changing his tone to a jesting one, "I have discovered a new disease."

"Not a heart affection," exclaimed Mr. Mann, with affected solemnity. "Say, is it so?" and he grasped his hands as though he were wonderfully agitated.

"You have guessed correctly."

"Ah, I suspected it long ago, but she wouldn't own it! Can you cure it doctor?"

"If you give me time."

"How long do you ask?"

"A life-time," said the young man, and his tone was so expressive, that, spite of all efforts, the tears gushed to the father's eyes.

"Take her, then, take, her; but if it's going to take so long to cure her, just take her into your chaise and carry her home; I can't be bothered with professional calls as long as that. Nell, you're a patient for life; will you like it?" and he clasped her in his arms.

"I think I shall, dear father," she whispered, hiding her blushes on his wrinkled face.

"Well' then, be off with you," said he and, straining her again to his bosom, he placed her hand in that of the young doctor, and then hurried from the room.

A happy man was Edward Arlington, when, on next New Year day, he held within his own the hand of the loved one he had vowed to love, honor, and protect, so long as life should last, the fair girl who was known all over the village as the dootor's first pacient.

Miscellaneous.

Don't Do It.

Don't attempt to punish all your enemies at once. You can't do a large business with a small capital.

Don't say "I told you so." Two to one you never said a word about it.

Don't worry about an other man's business. A little selfishness is sometimes commendable.

Don't imagine that you can correct all the evils in the world. A grain of sand is not prominent in a desert.

Don't mourn over fancied grievances. Bide your time, and real sorrow will come.

Don't throw dust in your teacher's eyes. It will only injure the pupil.

Don't worry about the ice crop. Keep cool and you will have enough.

Don't borrow a coach to please your wife. Better make her a little sulky.

Don't imagine that everything is weakening. Butter is strong in this market.

Don't publish your acts of charity. The Lord will keep the account straight.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

FIRST DISTRICT.

By virtue of the power and authority to me given by the State Executive Committee, and the Committee of twenty-three, appointed by the Republican caucus on the 12th day of February last, in the city of Raleigh I do hereby appoint Wednesday, the 17th day of June, 1874, and Hertford, Perquimans county, N. C., as the place for the Republican party of the 1st Judicial District, to assemble in Convention to nominate a candidate for Judge and for Solicitor for said District, and to transact such other business as the Convention may deem best for the interest of the party. The counties composing said District are requested to send delegates to said Convention and they will be entitled to one vote each in said Convention.

The Convention will be called to order at 12 o'clock M. punctually.

GEO. W. COBB.
Chairman.

Elizabeth City N. C. May 13th, 1874.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES.

The Democrats of this District met in Convention at Edenton on Thursday last and made their nominations. The ticket is not a strong one. Their most deserving and best working men were slaughtered and the nommations were given to those least in sympathy with the people. Had we manipulated the Convention the result could not have pleased us better.

For Congress there were several aspirants. The most prominent were our townsman DR. R. K. SPEED, Maj. L. C. LATHAM, of Plymouth; and Maj. J. J. YEATES, of Murfresboro. For years Dr. SPEED has been the "war horse" of the party and no man has worked more earnestly and vigorously for its success. But politicians are proverbially ungrateful and they proved so at Edenton. So has Major LATHAM been a worker, but he too, was laid aside.

On the second ballot Maj. YEATES was nominated. That he is personally an estimable gentleman we frankly concede, but to call him a strong man when two years ago we beat him for the Senate with WILEY GRANDY is enough to relax the life long rigidity of the facial ligaments of those who never laugh! Why, in his own county, in that canvass, COBB ran ahead of him 104 votes!

For Judge MILLS H. EURE Esq., of Gatesville, was nominated by acclamation. That he is a man of irreproachable character and a lawyer of fine ability all who know him frankly admit. We shall have something to say on this subject during the campaign.

For Solicitor J. P. WHEDBEE Esq., a young Member of the Bar at Elizabeth City, was placed in nomination.

For Senator, T. R. JERNIGAN, of Hertford county and W. B. SHAW of Currituck were selected. That the former should be an aspirant for office in the Democratic party was rather a surprize to us for we have not forgotten his appeal to the Old Line Whigs in December 1872 when he declared:

"It is time for those Old Line Whigs who have since the close of the war, been cooperating with the Democratic party, to ask themselves the question, whether it is not better, whether the interest of the country does not demaud that they should leave the camp of our present allies, not in the night time, BUT OPENLY AT NOONDAY, and unite their fortunes with those of the Republican Party, whose platform unquestionably embraces, in a larger degree, than the Democratic platform, those great cardinal principals which gave the Whig Party such prominence at one time in this country."

Hon. C. L. Cobb has been nominated by the Republicans of the First Congressional District as their candidate for Congress. Cobb is a very popular man.—NewBerne Courier.

That is so. He is one of the most popular men in the State.

JOHN EDGAR THOMPSON, the great Railroad President of Pennsylvania, died at Philadelphia on Thursday last.

PARTY INDEPENDENCE.

We sometimes hear men boast that they are not the slave of party. When uttered as a manly declaration of independence we commend it, but when it comes after a contest and a defeat in Convention we can feel no respect for it. There is a wide difference between the servile following of arbitrary leaders—the blind acceptance of policies without the privilege of remonstrance and that filibuster which secures the claims of common interests and work only for self. That the former is galling to a freeman is true, but the latter degrades his generous instincts into a mean scramble for personal agrandisement at the expense of the community.

We concede that the aspiration for office is a laudable one. The man possessing the requisite qualifications, who has maintained a good character and secured the confidence of fellow citizens has a right, at all proper times, to solicit their suffrage. But even this class of men make a mistake when they ignore the generous feeling that prompts to act for the best good of the whole. When they go into their party conventions, let them abide the voice of the Convention. To maintain organization there must be subordination—some renunciation of self. No man ought to expect to be successful in taking the position that he is better than his associates and more deserving of reward. The man whose actions show that he has no love above that of pelf and self ought to be rebuked.

Lippincott's Magazine for June presents a charming variety of subjects, treated with the ability and brilliancy so characteristic of the favorite periodical. The continuation of "The New Hyperion," by Edward Strahan, illustrated, is quaint, original, and entertaining as ever. An illustrated article, "Vignettes from the Schuylkill Valley," is an attractive feature of this number. The present installment of "Malcolm," by George MacDonald, decidedly intensifies and complicates the interests and prospects of the hero and heroine of the story, and introduced some new and mysterious characters. In the unpublished letters of Samuel Taylor Coleridge, which appear in this number, the cultivated readers of Lippincott's Magazine wile find much that is especially interesting and enjoyable, as giving clearer insight into the mind and character of the great poet and philosopher. The second and concluding paper of "Deshler & Deshler," by Sarah Winter Kellogg, is ready captivating, the conclusion of the whole matter being just what it ought to be for a woman of such pluck and ability. "A Call on a Bonze," by William E. Griffins, a very pleasant suggestive description of the social and inner life of the Buddhistic priesthood. "Bounce" is a short but charming and touching story of to day 'Present Aspects of Social Life in Rome,' by T. A. Trollope, is a familiar paper showing the monotony of modern life in the great papal city. "A Modern Cressida," by Francis Asheton, is brought to a somewhat tragic conclusion, with lessons manifold for those who care to learn. This number also contains several fine Poems, with the usual happy variety of Monthly Gossip, making it most attractive reading to all classes of persons.

ALWAYS READY TO ASSIST.

That our Member of Congress Mr. COBB has more influence at Washington than any other of the North Carolina delegation is now conceded. Not only is he always consulted upon every important measure interesting North Carolina but his aid is sought to secure the passage of bills benefitting the other districts of the State. During the month of April the Congressional Committee on Appropriations reported an item of $6,400 for keeping up the Assay Office at Charlotte. A majority of the House struck out the appropriation from the Bill on the ground that the office ought to be abolished and the property sold and the proceeds returned to the Treasury. Through the efforts of Mr COBB the appropriation was passed and the office saved. The Democrat at Charlotte, thus refers to the matter:

Mr. Cobb is the Republican member from the first District, and lives hundreds of miles from Charlotte. He is entitled to thanks for his efforts in the matter. For the purpose of affording our readers some information about the Assay Office here, we will copy next week a portion of Mr. Cobb's remarks made to the House on the 28th of April in favor of the appropriation.

PLAN OF OUR PARTY ORGANIZATION

The following is the plan of organization agreed upon and adopted for the Republican Party of North Carolina-

Resolved, That hereafter the organization of the Republican party of North Carolina shall be at follows:—

1. A State Executive Committee of eleven members, to be appointed by the president of the State convention and the president of the convention shall be ex officio one of the members of such committee.

2. A Judicial Committee for each judicial district, to be composed of one member from each county, in such districts to be appointed by the Judicial District Convention.

3. A Congressional District Committee for each district, to be composed of one member from each county, to be appointed by the Congressional District Convention.

4. A County Executive Committee to be composed of one member from each township, to be appointed by a County Convention.

5. A committee of five for each township, to be appointed by the people.

Resolved, That the present organization shall continue to exist untill the new one shall be effected.

Resolved, That the representation in the county conventions shall be in accordance with the plan of organization of the party heretofore adopted.

A LITTLE PLAIN TALK.

Republicanism is right or it is wrong. There is no half way ground. The men who enrolled themselves under its banner did so, because they had faith in its principles and believe i their supremacy in the State and Nation would best promote and secure the common weal. Such men—those who acted from earnest and sincere conviction—can never be induced to go over to the enemy. Come what may, they will never desert. If any of these do they become traitors to their principles and unfaithful to their country.

Sometimes we hear men say: "I have been a Republican from the beginning. I have suffered abuse and ostracism for my sentiments. I now think my party owes me something, I demand an office." They make an effort and fail. Their defeat exasperates them. They bolt and swear they'll never more vote the Republican ticket! Are such men honest? Are they—we mean those who persist in this—really patriots? Is self of more consequence than PRINCIPLES or country? Did they embrace Republicanism from conviction or did they join the party for gain? If the former, they now acknowledge themselves Benedict Arnolds; if the latter, their conduct stamps their former professions a lie and reveals them as venal camp followers unworthy of respect or confidence. The sooner both these classes go the better for the party. Not only are they troublesome, but they demoralize and weaken.

But there are men who say things in periods of excitement which they soon regret. After cool reflection they come to their senses and spurn the idea of putting in execution the rash threats made in the heat of passion. Such men are honest but impulsive. They sometimes say foolish things but when acting time comes they do not give aid and comfort to the political enemy. Their hearts are right and when the day to vote comes around they make their ballots count in the right direction.

COBB NOMINATION.—The Radical convention in Plymouth, N. C., on Friday, nominated for Congress C. L. COBB, after a very close and stormy contest. COBB was only nominated by a majority of seven.—Weldon News.

Our cotemporary has been misinformed. The contest was not a "close" one. The vote was cast by counties and there were 14 votes cast. There was but one ballot, and it stood 10½ for COBB and 3½ for LINDSEY. This is the fourth time Mr. COBB has been nominated, and he went into this convention stronger than he did either of the previous ones. As for the "storm," the most of it was caused by interloping and officious Democrats who forced themselves into the Convention and tried their level best to break it up.

Not a week passes but we learn of leading and influential gentlemen in different parts of the State breaking their affiliations with the Democracy and manfully joining the Republican party They anchored on the old and sinking craft as long as they felt it safe. They do not desire to be shipwrecked and hence they now take passage on the good ship REPUBLICAN, feeling assured that it will land them in a safe harbor. Among the late notable instances of this class we refer to W. W. PEEBLES Esq., of Northampton and W. F. FAIRCLOTH of Wayne.

They are coming, they are coming!
The good men and the true.
The Party of Right will triumph
And so will Justice too.

We hear a great deal said about the wants of the South. Our five years observation and experience has satisfied us that the whole matter can be summed up very briefly thus: The great want of the South is immigration, influx of foreign capital, more energy, more industry, greater economy, and a utilization of our broad ess resources. Secure these for us and this Southern country will enter on a new era of life and progress.

PAIN-KILLER!

TIME TESTS THE MERITS OF ALL THINGS.

Thirty Years is certainly long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the Pain Killer is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparelleled popularity it has attained. It is a sure and effective remedy. It is sold in almost every country in the world, and it needs only to be known to be prized, and its reputation as a Medicine of Great Virtue, is fully and permanently established. It is the great Family Medicine of the age. Taken internally, it cures Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhoea, Cramp and Pain in the Stomach, Bowell Complaint, Painters' Colic, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Sedden Colds, Sore Throat and Coughs. Taken Externally, it cures Bruises, Boils, Felons, Cuts, Burns, Scalds, Old Sores and Sprains, Swellings of the Joints, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Chapped Hands, Frost Bitten Feet, &c.

Pain is supposed to be the lot of us poor mortals, as inevitable as death, and liable at any time to come upon us. Therefore, it is important that remedial agents should be at hand to be used on emergency, when we are made to feel the excruciating agony of pain, or the depressing influences of disease. Such a remedial exists in Perry Davis' "Pain-Killer," the fame of which has extended over all the earth. Amid the eternal ices of the Polar regions, or beneath the intolerable and burning sans of the tropics its virtues are known and appreciated. And by it suffering humanity has found relief from many of its ills. The effect of the Pain-Killer upon the patient, when taken internally in cases of Cough, Cold, Bowel Complain, Cholera, Dysentery, and other affections of the system, has been truly wonderful, and has won for it a name among medical preparations that can never be forgotten. Its success in removing pain, as an external remedy, in case of Burns, Bruises, Sores and Sprains, Cuts, Stings of Insects, &c., and other causes of suffering has secured for it the most prominent position among medicines of the day. Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations. Call for Perry Davis' Vgetable Pain-Killer, and take no other.

TWO AMERICAN MAGAZINES.—

The excellence of AMERICAN MAGAZINES has become well recognized abroad that one of the leading English Papers, the LONDON WEEKLY REGISTER, in a recent issue, thus speaks of SCRIBNER MONTHLY.

"We are constrained to own that SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY carries off the prize against a shilling monthly serials for brilliancy of illustrations and variety of contents. It is simply a wonderful shillen's worth. Nothing can be more charming than the cuts,—full of force and vigor, the light and shade are managed with a truly artistic power. Out of its one and twenty original articles, we really do not know which to choose as best, for each and all are excellent."

Not only is it true that Scribner's Monthly excels the English Magazines, but it is "The Best of the American Monthlies."

In the extent, variety and artistic excellence of its illustration of American themes, it has never been even approached, much less excelled. It has a large page and gives a greater variety in its contents than any other of the Standard American Monthlies.

In literary character, and in the brilliancy and ability of its Editorial Departments, it enjoys an equal pre-eminence.

Its conductors started wit the definite aim of making it the best magazine in the world, of which they have for a moment lost sight. and they point with pride and pleasure to the May and June numbers, recently issued and ask for them a candid examination and a crucial comparison of their merits with those of other magazines; and they renew their pledge to the public, to strive for still higher excellence in the future.

A considerable demand has recently arisen in England for Sir. Nicholas, Scribner's New magazine for boys and girls, one publisher desiring to secure an edition of three thousand of first bound volume (when completed), with his imprint.

The success of St. Nicholas in this country has been even more remarkable than that of Scribner's Monthly. It is pronounced to be "an ideally perfect Magazine for children" and, as is the case with all the best literature for children, it has been found to possess surpassing interest for grown-up readers as well.

The influence of the periodicals of the day can scarcely be estimated, especially upon the rising generation. Parents and teachers cannot afford to be indifferent to this influence, or careless in relation to the character of the literature furnished to the children outside of their school lessons. In St. Nicholas not only are History, Natural Philosophy, Literature, Fine Arts, and Manufactures presented in an attretive way to young readers, but the children are stimulated to seek information for themselves.

The Publishers will send to any address a specimen number of St. Nicholas, postage pre-paid, on receipt of ten cents, the bare cost of paper and printing. The magazines are sold by all firstclass Booksellers and Newsdealers, everywhere.

It will always be a favorite with the Teacher, an account of its clearness and systematic progression, more of an amusement than a study for the pupil, and will prove a mine of wealth to the Amateur, on account of the many choice Melodies, Songs, etc., that

Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG,

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Local and Personal.

☞The Senatorial Convention will be held at Elizabeth City on the 24th inst.

☞Judge ALBERTSON is holding Court at Camden this week. Next week he will hold Court at Currituck.

☞The colored people of Edenton have decided to have a grand Fourth of July celebration this year.

☞The Republicans of Chowan will hold their county nominating Convention at Edenton on the 11th inst.

☞The Republicans of Bertie will hold a county Convention at Windsor on the 25th inst. for the purpose of making nominations.

☞The latest quotations are: New York, gold 112¼, cotton 18¼, corn 81¼. At Norfolk, cotton 16c, corn 90c a. 92c, meal $105.

☞We thank those of our correspondents who are keeping us posted. In due time we will pay our respects to the political Ishmaelites referred to.

☞Through an error we got the name of the Republican candidate for Treasurer wrong. Instead of J. A. MEADS it should be THOMAS MEADS.

☞The Democrats of Camden held their county Convention on Monday. Dr. MULLEN was nominated for the Legislature. South Mills was too sharp for Shiloh.

☞The First National Bank of Norfolk suspended on the 26th ult. The failure is said to be a hopeless one. Several depositors in this section will be losers.

☞By special Act of the Legislature of North Carolina the name of the Manufacturing Loan and Trust Company at this place was changed to "The Albemarle Bank." The new name was adopted on the 1st inst.

☞Our man 'round town informs us that a lady acquaintance of his was very fond of singing the new song, "My Love can Hold His Own." But that she don't sing it any more. She discovered that her lover had more than he could hold when he called on her last time. No cards.

☞Talking about good Hotels, the Statesville Intelligencer says that but few places in the State can boast of better hotels than are to be found in that town. But when that editor comes to Elizabeth City and stops at the "Albemarle House" he will include our town and hotel in his list.

☞A Western cotemporary says that a young clerk in one of the stores of his town is laughing yet at a young lady, fresh from boarding school, who tripped into the store softly as a snow flake, and in a voice clear as strained honey, asked him if he had "any patterns of husbandry." He thinks she wanted to make one.

☞That was rather a good thing—the rebuke given by the Perquimans farmer to the "Hawktailed lawyers" at the Edenton Convention. He got tired of their nonsense and told them that unless they stopped their gassing and let the Convention proceed to business he'd go home and shear his sheep. The Convention at once proceeded to business The farmer tallies one!

☞A correspondent sends us the following on "Sent" which he claims as an original effusion. We doubt it. We think we have seen it before; but we print it nevertheless because it was sent us for that purpose:

SENT.

A cent was sent to send a scent,
Although the scent it was not sent;
Come with me, and you'll assent;
I'll prove to you the cent was sent.

☞We refer to the Democratic nominations in another part of this week's CAROLINIAN. They do not inspire any enthusiasm. The mass of the party feel disheartened. They felt that the issue was a doubtful one even had their strongest men been selected as standard bearers, but now they know there is no hope. Well, they have experienced defeat so often they ought to feel use to it.

☞The Norfolk Virginian of Saturday came to us dated May 40. We knew that the "merrie month of May" had a reputation for being somewhat dissolute and capricious, and we likewise had evidence that this year it had vascillated between cold and heat, rain and sunshine, but we did not know that that with its lack of prejudice for one form of misery over another it had actually presumed to add more days to its calendar! Or were the figures of our cotemporary slightly demoralized by the result of the late election?

☞No man in Eastern Carolina has done more hard and efficient work for the Conservatives than Dr. SPEED of this City. His clarion voice has sounded from every stump in the district, and he has labored vigorously—spent the best years of his life for the party. But when the time came to reward his faithful services he is coolly told to stand aside and make room for one far less deserving. Excepting the ingratitude, which we despise everywhere, this action of the Edenton Convention suits us exactly. Politically it is to our advantage for Dr. SPEED would have been a good deal harder to beat than the man who fell so far short in the race two years ago with our whilom friend GRANDY.

☞The Board of Commissioners of Elizabeth City find it difficult to ascertain the true and exact financial condition of the Corporation. They know exactly the number and amount of outstanding orders from the 12th of May 1873, but how many there are, if any, of older date they do not know. In order to ascertain this fact they advertise that all such be presented at their next regular meeting on the 6th of July for which new orders will be issued. It is hoped this order will be promptly complied with. It is important that it should be.

☞We have received an earnest letter from an old friend, but we doubt the expediency of publishing it. That there is a good deal of Pharisee-ism in the world is too evident—a vast deal more of professing virtue and piety and truth than is practiced. Who does not realize it? Nor is it confined to those who seldom enter the sanctuary. How often do we meet men who drop their chins in sermons and rise early Monday mornings to go forth to take advantage of their fellow men—pray on the Sabbath and prey upon the intermediate days of the calendar? Oh, what a rare jewel consistency is!

☞We have received a number of letters from different parts of the District complimenting us for the "firm and consistent position taken and maintained" at the Plymouth Convention in adhering to and sustaining the usages and laws of the party. To them all we can simply say we did what we believed to be our duty. In our humble judgment this was important. Without organization nothing can be accomplished, and who does not know that organization cannot be kept up if the rules and regulations are allowed to be violated? When we feel that we are right, and we always try to be so, there is no influence that can bribe us—no power that can drive us. The man who attempts either must expect our resentment. Having been present at, and assisted in the founding of the Republican party, and having taken an active part in its struggles and proudly witnessed its glorious triumphs, we are not yet quite ready to see it struck down. No, no, but on the contrary we will stand by, protect and defend it to the last.

☞The Pioneer Transportation Company now stop at Elizabeth City with their night boats. This increases our facilities for transportation and travel. We now have both a day and a night line to and from Norfolk,—every other day by way of the Dismal Swamp Steam Transportation Company and every other night by the Pioneer line. The boats of the latter are fitted up with State Rooms. Passengers leaving here at 7 o'clock P. M. can go to bed, arriving at Norfolk the next morning, and, if they desire, can return that night. This line also gives us direct steamboat communication with Hertford, Edenton, the Scuppernong and Roanoke Rivers and Newbern..

——In addition to the above we are constrained to add that the officers in command on the several boats on this line are unremitting in their attentions to passengers. Especially is this so with Capt. BEALE, of the Astoria, whose courtesy and politeness has placed us under special obligations.

SEEING IS BELIEVING.—If'd this Boeing age there are persons to be found who are so bi'ed :: by prejudice are not to believe that a man medicated stimulant, is an item of immense importance in the catalogue of human remedies, who should like them to witness the wonderful effects which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are now producing all over the country in cases of intermittent fever, rheumatism, billious disorders, dyspepsia nervous complaints, constitutional debility, mental depressions and premature decay. The great vegetable invigorant and its cures have been before the people for more than twenty-five years, and in every year of the twenty-five its popularity has increased and its sale has become larger. Yet there are no doubt many thousand of intelligent citizens who have never had an opportunity of observing for themselves the surprising changes which this unequalled tonic and alterative produces in systems which seems to be hopelessly broken, and in cases of diseases which are not amenable to ordinary remedies. Probably many of these regard the statements made in relation to the sanitary properties of the Bitters which some degree of incredulity. Would that all such skeptics could see with their own eyes what the medicine is doing for the sick and feeble everywhere, what a staff of life it is proving to the aged and infirm, what a help in times of trouble to feeble women suffering from the complaints and disabilities peculiar to the sex, what a protection to health and life in malarious districts, what a panacea for languor and depression, what a specific for all diseases in which the system requires to be vitalized and sustained. Of all stimulants it is the purest and safest of all tonics the most genial, effective and agreeable, of all alterative's the least violent and the most certain in its beneficia results.

Objects in Ploughing.

One leading object is to make a mellow seed bed. A mellow, open, porous soil has greater absorptive power than a soil closely packed. It can take in the elements of the atmosphere that are essential to plant growth. A ready admission of the atmosphere is requisite to absorption while the retentive power of the soil will depend largely on its composition and its mechanical condition. The absorbing power of the soil is in proportion to its fineness. The finer and more porous we make the soil, the greater the power of absorption. It is well known that if water, adulterated with barn manure, be filtered through fine pulverized clay, it is rendered nearly pure; when drained through gravel it is less so, and if sand is used, the change is still less perceptible. So that the finer we make the soil, the better will they retain those elements of the atmosphere necessary for plant food. Hence, if we would have our soils absorb and retain the manure and fertilizer we put upon them, it is important that we make them fine and porous. Although pulverizing the soil is not applying manure, yet it serves materially to aid the young rootlets in making their researches for food, and hastens the crop.

A soil may be ever so good and retentive, what we call a strong soil, but unless it is opened up to the light and air, it does not admit the elements of fertility which the air always contains. Breaking the clubble and reducing the mass of the surface soil to fineness enables the rains, the dews and the air to penetrate them in something the same way as a healthy and sound lung admits the air to purify and oxygenate the blood. An open and porous soil is therefore about as important for the health of the plant, as a healthy lung if to the general health of a human being.

Another important object in plough ing, is to mix and deepen soils. It often happens that the surface soil is sandy and the subsoil clay, or the surface soil composed mainly of vegetable loam, and the subsoil wanting. Now it is important that these soils be mixed and made deeper and changed to a proper fineness, before they are fit to give sustenance to the young plants, and give more extensive range to the young rootlets. The depth to which land should be ploughed should be varied according to circumstances. We would not, however, favor the principle of turning up a large amount of subsoil at once, but at each successive ploughing, guage the plough so that it may removed and bring to the surface about one inch more in depth than at the previous ploughing; this will add an amount of subsoil to the surface, equal to one hundred loads of thirty bushels each to be converted into surface soil, and this operation should be repeated till the required depth is obtained.—Massachusetts. ploughman.

Culture of Beans.

The first requisite for a bean is thorough preparation of the ground. Beans cannot be successfully raised among clods or weeds. The ground should be made very mellow by repeated rolling and harrowing. My own plan has been to run light furrows about twenty inches apart, and follow in these with a corn drill, planting the beans three or four inches apart in the row (The brush must be taken out of the drill-box, and the orifice where the brush is fastened must be cut or filed out in order to plant them so thick.) This will require between three and four pecks to the acre, varying according to the size of the beans. Immediately after planting, the ground should be harrowed again. Beans will usually come up in three to five days from the time of planting. The after culture which I have practised is ploughing between the rows with a steady horse, a careful ploughman and a very narrow single shovel plough. The cultivation should cease as soon as the beans begin to blossom. I have found from the first to the 5th of June to be a very good time for planting; they will then ripen about the last of August, and the ground can easily be made ready for a wheat crop. The yield varies greatly, according to the season; fifteen bushels per acre is considered by many as a fair yield, but from twenty to thirty bushels can be raised in a favorable year by proper care and attention. "Navy" beans usually command twenty five to fifty cents more per bushel in market than the ordinary kind, but they are not so easily raised, and they ripen much later, frequently too late for the ground to be sown in wheat. Beans require a good soil, which must be well drained. They can be raised on very poor ground, but the yield will be correspondingly small. Seed beans purchased from the stores should be tested by sprouting a few before planting the crop, as they sometimes heat in bulk and will not grow.—N. Y. Tribune.

Hints on House Cleaning.

Plaints shoul be cleaned by using a little water at a time and changing often; a soft flannel cloth or sponge is better than cotton or a brush; a piece of pine wood with a sharp point should be used for the corners. Where the paint is stained with smoke, some ashes or potash lye may be used. A soft linen towel should be used for wiping dry. Glass should not be cleaned with soap; a little paste of whiting and water should be rubbed over, and with another cloth it should be rinsed off, and the glass polished with a soft linen or old silk handkerchief. Alcohol or benzine is a good thing to clean glass, and paper is probably better than any cloth, sponge or towel; dry paper leaves an excellent polish. Marble may be cleaned with a mixture of two parts of common soda one part of pumice stone, and one of chalk, finely powered, and tied up in a fine muslin rag; the marble is wetted with water, the powder shaken over it, and it is rubbed with a soft cloth untill clean, then washed in clean water and dried with a soft linen or silk handkerchief. No soap or potash should be allowed on marble. A good furniture polish is made by melting two ounces of beeswax, one ounce of turpintine and one dram of powdered rosin together, with a gentle heat, and rubbing on when cold. with a soft flannel cloth, and polishing with a soft linen or silk cloth. If for mahogany, a little indian red may be mixed in. Cracks in furniture may be filled with putty, mixed with Indian red or burnt umber, to get the desired shade. When dry it will take an equal polish with the wood.—Christian Leador.

Setting Hens.

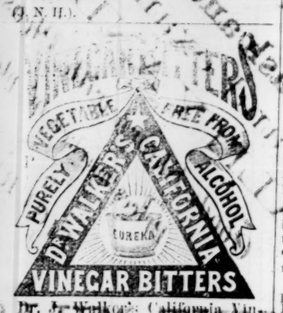
A correspondent writes: "It is often the case that troublesome, and sometimes cruel, expedient are resorted to, to break hens from setting such as ducking them in water or throwing them into a pound; putting snowballs or stones in their nests; shutting them up without food, etc. Now all that is necessary is simply to put them in a comfortable coop or pen out of sight of and away from their nests, four or five days, with plenty of food and water. A hen that would be a good setter and mother you cannot break by ducking or any other short method; nature's laws are too deeply implanted for that.

POND'S EXTRACT CURES

Neuralgia, Piles, Headache, Diarrhœa, Boils, Soreness, Lameness, Burns, Sprains, Toothache, Scalds, Wounds, Sore Throat, Ulcers, Bruises, Rheumatism, Hemorrhages, ETC.

CURED BY POND'S EXTRACT

N. Y. N. H.



Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is often asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" One answer is that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers its health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Regulator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use VINEGAR BITTERS as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitinted Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, rest assured that your liver is not doing its work. The only sensible treatment is to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose use VINEGAR BITTERS.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real-Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements to capitalists and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness it will compare favorably with any where, and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility and durability of soil, no section can vie.

A railroad will soon be built from Norfolk, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great natural farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A farm of 700 acres in Pasquotank County 10 miles from town, with fine two story dwelling, large barn, kitchen and other outhouses, as also, two other dwellings, barns and other houses at different points on the farm. This farm is all cleared but 150 acres, is free from swamps and other waste land, and is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, &c. The price is 14,000 in easy payments.

A farm of 500 acres in Pasquotank County, 6 miles from town, and one mile from the River, with good new dwelling built in modern style, barn, stables, four tenant houses scattered over the farm, fine water, &c. This farm is situated on the most public road in the County, has 300 acres cleared and balance in splendid pine, oak, cypress, maple, sweet gum, and other valuable timber. It is peculiarly adapted to raising cotton, $50 per acre, net, having been realized on a part of it this year in cotton. It also grows corn, wheat, oats, and other crops well. Price $12,000 in easy payments.

Two tracts of land lying on Pasquotank River four miles from town, neatly cleared, and in good cultivation, one contains 1,000 acres, and the other 600 acres. Both have good fisheries, and the land is equal to any in this section. Price $20.00 per acre in easy payments. Also several smaller tracts for sale, ranging from 50 to 100 acres each, at low prices, and on easy terms.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotauk county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Three farms—one of 100 acres, one of 80 acres and one of 190 acres, within two miles of town, mostly cleared land. Price $20 per acre for each tract—payments on easy terms. Also many other valuable farms and town lots too numerous to mention.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1874—SEVENTH YEAR.

THE ALDINE.

An illustrated Monthly Journal, universally admitted to be the Handsomest Periodical in the world. A Lepresentative and Champion of American Taste,

Not for Sale in Book or News Sto. es.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscelany of pure; light and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures; the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succesdang number affords fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beanty of the ALDINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original codception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quality of fine paper and engravilngs in any otheashape or number of volumes for ten times its cost and then, these are the chosen books.

ART DEPARTMENT, 1874.

The illustrations of THE ALDINE have won a world wide reputation, and in the art centres of Europe it is en admitted fact teat its wood cuts are examples of the highest perfection ever attained. The common prejudice in favor of "steel plates," is rapidly yieldidg to a more educated and discriminating taste which recognizes the advantages of superior artistic quality with greater facilities of production. The wood-cuts of THE ALDINE, possess all the delicacy and elaborate finish of the most costly steel plate, while they afford a better rendering of the actist's original.

To fully realize the wonderful work which THE ALDINE is doing for the cause of art culture in America, it is only necessary to consider the cost to the people of any other decent representations of the productions of great painters.

In addition to designs by the members of the National Academy, and other noted American artists, THE ALDINE will reproduce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic success and greatest general interest. Thus the subscriber will, at a trifling cost, enjoy in his own home, the refining influences of true art.

The quarterly tinted plates for 1874 will be by Thos. Morgan and J. D. Woodward.

The Christmas issue for 1874 will contain special designs appropriate to the season, by our best artists, and will surpass in attractiveness any of its predecessors.

Premium for 1874.

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874 will receive a pair of chromos. The original pictures were painted in oil for the publishers of THE ALDINE, by Thos. Moran, whose great Colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten dollars. The subjects were chosen to represent "The East" and "The West." One is a view of the White Mountains New Hampshire; the other gives the Cliffs of Green River, Wyoming, Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a pleasing contrast, and affords a good display of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos are each worked from thirty distinct plates, and are in size (12 x 16) and appearance exact the similies of the originals. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea, and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonial, over the signature of Mr. Moran himself.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20, 1873.

MESSRS. JAMES SUTTON & CO.

Gentlemen:—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your chromos. They are wonderfully successful representations by mechanical process of the original paintings.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) THOS. MORAN.

These chromos are in every sense American. They are by an original American process, with material manufacture, from designs of American scenery by an American Art Journal. If no better because of all this, they will certainly possess an interest no foreign production can inspire and neither are they any worse if by reason of peculiar facilities of production they cost the publishers only a trifle, while equal in every respect to other chromos that are sold singly for double the subscription of THE ALDINE. Persons of taste will prize these pictures for themselves—not for the price they did or did not cost, and will appreciate the enterprize that renders their distribution possible.

If any subscriber should indicate a preference for a figure subject, the publishers will send "Thoughts of Home," a new and beautiful chromo, 14 x 20 inches representing a little Italian exile whose speaking eyes betray the longings of his heart.

TERMS.

$5 per annum, in advance, with Oil Chromos free.

50 cents extra the chromos will be sent mounted, varnished and prepaid by mail.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtained only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rate; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fassimile signature of JAMES SUTTON & Co.

Canvassers Wanted.

Any person wishing to act permanently as a local canvasser will receive full and prompt information by applying to

THE GREAT BALOON.

You've heard about the great balloon,
In which Professor Wise
Proposed to go to Europe,
By sailing through the skies,
He proposed to show the people
A quicker way for trips
Than ever had been known before,
By sailing o'er in ship.

Well everything seemed lovely
Upon that Autumn day,
When they began to pump in gas
To bear the barge away.
They pumped and pumped with all their power,
And things seemed nigh adjusted—
When there came an awful crash,
And the mighth bubble busted.

It's ever thus in human life,
Go whereso'er we may,
The darkest night will oft succeed
The brightest, sunniest day,
There are exceptions to this rule,
Where all the days are fair,—
For one, go down to JOHNSON'S HALL,
You'll find things all right there.

We've thought it best in cases like this,
This little fact to mention;
You need not ferr that they'll inflate
Beyond their power of retention.
And when they undertake to go
Their geer's so well adjusted,
They'll move straigh forward to their work,
With no fear of being "busted."
